Biography of The Late William Kingsford Eshun

Romans 14:7–8

"For none of us lives to himself alone, and none of us dies to himself alone. If we live, we live to the Lord; and if we die, we die to the Lord. So whether we live or die, we belong to the Lord. Amen."

The Late William Kingsford Eshun, affectionately known as "Kofi Nyameasua," was born at Boakrom in the Ahanta West Municipality of the Western Region of Ghana on Friday, 7th September 1963.

He was born to the late William Eshun, alias Ndwumahun, of the Boafin Ndele Wusu Anona Family of Boakrom, and the late Maame Odome Bale of the Asamagama Family of Kanfakrom. He was affectionately called Kofi by his family and loved ones.

EDUCATION AND EARLY LIFE

Kofi began his formal education at Himakrom Methodist Primary School and later attended Azani LA Middle School from 1970. He successfully obtained his Middle School Leaving Certificate in 1979.

In 1982, he joined his sister, Mary Eshun (Auntie Mansa), and her husband, Mr John H. Andoh, at Mateheko, Accra, where he was taken on as an apprentice in tailoring and dressmaking.

Upon completing his apprenticeship, he served his master for some time before establishing his own tailoring shop at Mateheko, Accra. He was a dedicated and professional tailor who took pride in his craft and worked diligently to provide for himself and his family.

He later moved from his sister's home and settled at Darkuman and Nyamekye in Accra, where he continued his tailoring business.

MARRIAGE AND FAMILY LIFE

While in Accra, Kofi met Adjoa Lucy, also known as Juliana Hammond, with whom he fell in love. They subsequently performed their customary marriage rites at Bisease in the Central Region.

He later acquired a plot of land at Kasoa and, after completing the construction of their home, the family moved from Nyamekye, Accra, to their new home in Kasoa. There, he continued his work as a professional tailor. Kofi and his wife were blessed with five children, three females and two males. Their marriage was later dissolved at Bisease in 2009.

CHRISTIAN LIFE AND FINAL DAYS

Kofi was a Christian who believed in worshipping and serving his Creator. He cherished his faith and, throughout his life, remained conscious of God and His place in his journey.

In his later years, he began experiencing health challenges and sought medical attention and treatment. After a period of illness, he gave up his last breath on 20th August 2026.

His passing has left a deep void in the hearts of his children, siblings, extended family, friends and all who knew and loved him. Though his departure has brought great sorrow, the family takes comfort in the life he lived, the memories he created and the lives he touched.

As the Psalmist reminds us, "The Lord shall preserve thy going out and thy coming in from this time forth, and even for evermore."

FINAL TRIBUTE

William Kingsford Eshun, affectionately known as Kofi Nyameasua, lived a life characterised by hard work, dedication, family and perseverance. From his early years as an apprentice to his years as a professional tailor, he worked diligently and sought to make a meaningful life for himself and his family.

His earthly journey has come to an end, but the memories of his life, his work and the moments shared with him will remain in the hearts of those who knew and loved him.

May his soul rest in perfect peace!

Since all that I meet
Shall work for my good,
The bitter is sweet,
The medicine, food;
Though painful at present,
'Twill cease before long,
And then, oh, how pleasant
The conqueror's song!
MHB 511

Daddy, today we stand here with hearts filled with gratitude, yet heavy with sorrow. It is difficult to accept that you are no longer with us. We will miss you dearly, and there will always be a special place in our hearts that belongs to you alone.

We thank God for the gift of your life and for the years He graciously gave us to share with you. Above all, Daddy, we thank you for the foundation you gave us—a foundation built on hard work, discipline, education, responsibility, contentment and faith in God.

We may not have been rich, and we may not have had everything we wanted, but you did your very best to give us what you believed would shape our future. You understood the value of education and made sure we had the opportunity to attend good schools and receive a solid foundation. What you gave us was more than material possessions; you gave us values and principles that will continue to guide us throughout our lives.

Daddy, you were also a talented tailor, and we will forever cherish the beautiful clothes you made for us. You did not simply clothe us; through your hands, you expressed your love, care and dedication to your children. Your skill was a gift, but the love behind your work was an even greater gift.

And then there were the memories that make us smile even through our tears.

We remember those days when we were learning to cook. You would taste our food, look at us and, with your characteristic humour, tell us that the food had "one taste and one scent." At the time, we probably did not find it as funny as we do today. But those simple moments have now become precious memories, memories that we will carry with us and treasure forever.

You also had a special way of giving each of us names and descriptions that reflected your observations of our personalities and habits. You called Princella "Madam Six-Six" because she would start washing at 6:00 a.m. and finish at 6:00 p.m. Wilson was known for his audacity. Mayfia was the one with many questions every day. And Angamah was affectionately called "Obaapanyin," after your grandmother.

These little names, jokes and observations may have seemed ordinary at the time, but today they are treasures. They remind us of how closely you knew each of us and how you found your own special ways of showing that you cared.

Daddy, you taught us many things sometimes through your words and sometimes simply through the way you lived. You taught us to work hard, to value education, to be responsible, to keep a clean environment, to make something meaningful out of what we had and, above all, to be content.

Today, we realise that some of the things we may have taken for granted were actually sacrifices born out of your love for us.

In your final days, your faith in God became even more evident to us. Two of your favourite Bible stories were the stories of Job and Joseph. Perhaps it was not by coincidence that these were the stories that spoke so deeply to you. They were stories of faith, perseverance, trials, waiting and, ultimately, trusting in God's purpose.

Daddy, you prayed with us. Whenever we called you, you would reassure us and remind us to trust in God. You encouraged us to hold tightly and firmly to God's Word, reminding us that God is our anchor. You taught us to believe that even when the path ahead was uncertain, God would be a light unto our path. Those words have remained with us.

Now that you are no longer here to say them to us, we will hold on to them even more firmly. When life becomes difficult, we will remember your voice telling us to trust in God. When we face uncertainty, we will remember the faith you demonstrated. And when we wonder how to move forward without you, we will remember the foundation you gave us and the God you taught us to depend on.

As we mourn your passing, we choose also to celebrate your life.
We celebrate the father who did his very best for his children.
We celebrate the hands that worked tirelessly to provide for us.
We celebrate the talented tailor who made beautiful clothes for his family.

We celebrate the father who believed that education could open doors for his children.
We celebrate the memories, laughter and little moments that made our family special.

And we celebrate a father who, even in his final days, continued to point his children towards God.
Daddy, we would have loved for you to stay a little longer with us, but God knows best. Your physical presence is no longer with us, but as you always said, "Agya yɛ susum."

Your lessons, your sacrifices, your laughter, your faith and your memories will remain with us. We will carry the foundation you gave us and pass the values you instilled in us to generations yet unborn.
Thank you, Daddy, for everything.

Ma wo susum pa nwen yɛn.
May the good legacy of your life continue to live on through us.

We are comforted by the assurance that you fought the good fight, kept the faith and finished your earthly journey as a soldier in Christ.

Rest peacefully, Daddy!
Until we meet again,
Your loving children

Today, we gather as brothers and sisters with heavy hearts to mourn the loss of our beloved brother, Willie. His departure has left a great void in our family. A light from our household has gone out, and a place is now vacant in our hearts that can never truly be filled. Words cannot adequately describe the pain we feel as we write this tribute.

Brother Willie lived his life as a humble, respectful, jovial and fun-loving person. His infectious laughter and warm smile brought joy to everyone who knew him. As siblings, we shared a very strong bond, and Willie taught us the true meaning of family, constantly reminding us that we are stronger together.

He was a devoted Christian who took his faith seriously and never joked with the things of God. His life reflected love, compassion, kindness and genuine concern for others. He was always willing to share a kind word, a smile or a helping hand.

Though we mourn his loss deeply, we also choose to celebrate the incredible legacy he leaves behind. Willie's memory will forever live on in our hearts, reminding us to live each day with purpose, cherish our loved ones and never take a single moment for granted.

Today, we stand united as brothers and sisters, bound by the love we shared with Willie. Though he may no longer be physically present among us, the memories of his life and the love he showed us will remain with us forever.

We are grateful for the time we shared with him, for the memories we created together and for the privilege of calling him our brother.
Rest in peace, dear Willie.

Your memory will forever remain in our hearts and souls.

With love,
Your brothers and sisters

NEPHEWS AND NIECES

You were there on the day of our birth. You watched us grow in age and stature, and you contributed immensely to our upbringing.

You were not just our uncle but also an elder brother who was passionately concerned about our development and well-being.

Bra Kofi, as we affectionately called you, you taught us, protected us, kept us in check, and brought us back on track whenever we derailed. You provided for us whenever the need arose.

Your kindness was constant, and your love for us was evident. You loved and cared for us in your own special way until the enemy struck.

Above all, we appreciate you and are deeply grateful for the role you played in our lives. You were truly a good and faithful servant.

"Well done, good and faithful servant… enter into the joy of your Lord."
— Matthew 25:23

Rest well, Bra Kofi!

SONS IN-LAWS

"For we know that if our earthly tent is broken, we have a house from God, a building not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." — 2 Corinthians 5:1

We honour a remarkable man of God who walked through life with strength, dedication, and unwavering faith in the Lord. Your care, love, and prayers were a constant source of comfort to our families.

You constantly reminded us that we should never cease praying. Whenever we faced difficulties in life, you encouraged us to turn first to Jesus. Dada would often say, "Bibiaa be ye fine, just pray about it." This counsel has been our motivation and has kept us going. Who will give us this advice again?

We call you Dada because you accepted us as your own sons the moment we became part of your family. Thank you for the beautiful daughters you raised and blessed us with as wives. You brought them up so well, instilling godly values in them.

We had hoped you would stay with us a little longer, as the night was drawing near. But what are we, mere mortals, to say when the Master needs His servant? We trusted God to bless us with more of your grandchildren for you to babysit, but God knows best.

Making that familiar right turn to visit you at your store whenever we were coming from Kasoa is now a thing of the past. Nevertheless, we take consolation in the assurance that when we have all departed into eternity, the Lord will one day gather us together again, and our reunion in heaven will be eternal and joyous.

Although our hearts are completely broken, saddened, and grieved, we do not grieve without hope, for Christ in us is the hope of glory (Colossians 1:27). We know that you have fought the good fight, finished the race, and kept the faith.

Until Christ brings us all together in His eternal glory, your memory will forever remain sacred in our hearts.

Ride on, Dada Kingsford! Ride on, Dada Eshun!

May the good Lord keep you until we meet again!

Tribute by CHURCH

It is with deep sorrow and heavy hearts that we pay tribute to our beloved brother, Mr. William, whose passing has left a great void in our hearts and in the church.

Mr. William was a devoted member of our church and a committed member of the Men's Fellowship. He served God with sincerity, dedication, and humility. His love for the church was evident in the way he participated in church activities and supported the work of God.
He was a brother who valued fellowship, unity, and service. His presence among us brought encouragement and strength, and his commitment to the things of God will always remain an example to us.
Although we are saddened by his departure, we are comforted by the assurance of God's Word that those who die in the Lord are blessed. We believe that Mr. William has finished his earthly journey and is now resting in the presence of his Maker.

His absence will surely be felt, but his memories will remain with us. We will remember his devotion, his fellowship, his service, and the impact he made among us.

Mr. William, you have fought the good fight, you have finished the race, and you have kept the faith. Your earthly journey may have come to an end, but your legacy will continue to live in our hearts.
From the leadership and members of the church and the Men's Fellowship, we say:

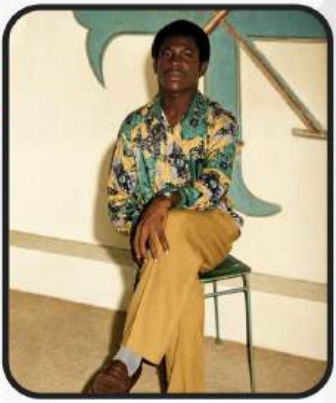

Rest peacefully, our beloved brother.
You will forever be remembered.
You will forever be missed.
May your soul rest in perfect peace.
Until we meet again, rest in the loving arms of the Lord. Amen.

From the church,
The Living God Church
